

Driftwood Dairy's Efforts to Eradicate Slavery and Human Trafficking From Its Direct Supply Chain

Driftwood Dairy is working to verify that goods in its supply chain are not produced by slavery or human trafficking. At the present time, this verification is conducted in-house and not by an independent third-party.

Driftwood Dairy audits its direct suppliers to evaluate their compliance with Driftwood Dairy's standards prohibiting trafficking and slavery in its supply chains. At the present time, these audits are conducted in-house and are not independent unannounced audits.

Driftwood Dairy requires each of its direct suppliers to certify in writing that all supplied goods and materials comply with all laws regarding slavery and human trafficking of all countries in which each direct supplier is doing business.

Driftwood Dairy maintains internal accountability standards and procedures for its employees and contractors who might fail to meet Driftwood Dairy's standards regarding slavery and trafficking.

Driftwood Dairy provides its employees and management who have direct responsibility for supply chain management with training on human trafficking and slavery, particularly with respect to mitigating risks within Driftwood Dairy's product supply chains.